Q&S are pleased to announce their successful accreditation to OHSAS 18001 Occupational Health & Safety

Quality & Service, (Q&S) the independent commercial landscape company, which delivers landscaping services to blue chip clients within in London and the South East of England are pleased to announce that they have been accredited to OHSAS 18001.

This new accreditation is now fully integrated into the management systems already in place for the internationally renowned ISO 9001 (Quality Management) and ISO 14001 (Environmental Management) standards, both of which have recently been renewed for the 6th successive year.

The Directors of Q&S, John Rodgers and Sue Payne, have worked tirelessly to ensure that health and safety, quality and the environment are taken into account in the decisions they make every day, and welcome the inclusion from May 2016 of OHSAS 18001.

Sue Payne, Managing Director, Q&S, said: "The independent assessment of all our systems demonstrates Quality & Service's commitment to Occupational Health & Safety Management for our employees, operations and Clients. This new Health & Safety accreditation will sit seamlessly alongside our commitment to customer service and quality in delivery as well as demonstrating how seriously we take our environmental responsibilities. To receive accreditation is truly welcomed and is one of the reasons why our landscaping teams continually work to extremely high standard to provide a quality landscape service to all our Clients delivering customer satisfaction, as reported in our annual customer surveys. Well done team Q&S"
